General guideline for Peer Review process:

This journal’s peer review policy states that NO manuscript should be rejected only on the basis of lack of Novelty, provided the manuscript is scientifically robust and technically sound. To know the complete guideline for Peer Review process, reviewers are requested to visit this link:

Compulsory REVISION comments

The manuscript is of potential interest to the readership of this journal, but there are major issues that must be addressed before the article could be published.

1. * The literature review should be more carefully synthesised and structured. The use of sub-headings and signposting would help the reader to follow the argument being developed through the paper.
2. * The results section requires far greater organisation and structuring. The analysis is too general and the reported results are somewhat selective. This section needs to be more carefully and systematically constructed.
3. * Further, the analysis and findings must be critical and interpretive rather than just descriptive.
4. * The final discussion and conclusion should make it clear how the findings contribute to new knowledge.
6. * Methodology of the central work is exposed appropriately.
7. * Research methodology based on research goals is poor on absent.
8. * More recent bibliography is necessary. Furthermore, the reference list is a little bit weak. Before I can make a final decision on the paper, please refer to more references and upload a new version. It is suggested that the author(s) can consider the following paper related to the definitions and trends of mobile learning and the quality of mobile apps—especially the self-proclaimed mobile apps:

Especially for the following sentences the author(s) should cite the following research:

10. * The academic writing needs work.
11. * In preparing a revised manuscript, please also include a table of how you have responded to each of the issues listed above point by point. I look forward to receiving your revised manuscript in the near future.
