Editor's Comment:

The following is my final editorial decision on the Manuscript “Traditional Body Marks for Beautification among Selected Dangme Groups in Ghana” for its publication in Asian Research Journal of Arts & Social Sciences

The paper deserves publication in ARJASS.

It is well documented piece of research and deserves appreciation. The study is scientifically robust and technically sound as per the standards in social sciences. Available literature on the subject is comprehensively reviewed. Revisions suggested by reviewers are well incorporated by the author. Objective, methodology, data analysis and interpretation parts of the paper are nicely presented. Conclusion is rightly derived based on the empirical evidence.
