Editor’s Comments:

I went through the document.

I have serious concerns about the grammar and language use in the paper. The paper needs serious language editing and rewriting of some sections. I think the conclusions the draw can be warranted from such a small sample size.

Author’s Feedback:

We just affirm that we wrote this arvice by ourself as the previous articles, which were accepted. We did our best revising this last variant.

It is not clear what do you mean by “the draw can be warranted from such a small sample size small”? Or is it “the draw cannot be warranted from such a small sample size”? Our sample is of 30 children and it is obvious that we cannot modify this samle at the moment. The study was carrid out with 30 children, but this sample is nor really “a small sample” for this kind of clinic study.
