

Editor's Comment:

Looked through the paper

Couple of concerns:

1. It appears, that the second revision (v2) was not approved ("signed out") by the peer reviews. It appears, to me, the 2nd revision need to have approval secured from the reviewers
2. Along the same line, the current revision still loaded with tracking marks and side comments. The version ("v3") should have interval editing shown in yellow highlights only, per the journal's requirements

Formatting of the paper should be done according to the journal's (BJMMR) requirements re: listing of authors, affiliations, list of abbreviations, etc. in the paper
